

DIANE DAVIS – ARTIST BIO

Diane Davis is a painter who has exhibited throughout the Metropolitan area in group and solo shows in museums and art galleries. She was honored by the Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture as one of the 125 Black New York artist of the 20th Century in 1998. Her work "Sunrise Dancers" was published by the Schomburg in the catalogue "Black New York Artist of the 20th Century". Her most recent exhibits include Hampton University in 2008 and Chashama, 2008. Davis is included in the Pomegranate 2009 agenda book titled "365 Days of Black History, In Praise of Women. She is a feature artist in the documentary titled "Nine by Five", which focuses on the careers of five New York Artist from the five boroughs. Davis was a feature artist on NY1. She has been written up in many newspapers including The New York Times. She presently holds a residency with Chashama Visual Arts Studios in Harlem, NY.